Mr. Firzaron then moved to amend the 3d section of title 4, so as to show the owners of property assessed for improvements, to elect six persons, of whom three Commissioners should be selected by the Supreme Court to apportion the expense of such improvement. He claimed that this amendment could not be considered as a political movement. It was merely proposed to goard the rights of property holders and owners, and should be inserted in the charter. He mayed to re-commit the bill, with instructions to report this amendment to the House. Lost-Ayes 21,

Mr. Wakeman introduced a bill for aid to the Free Library of the General Mechanics' and Tradesmen's Society of New York.

The House Committee of the Whole took up the bill appropriating money to the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents of New-York, and to enable them to erect new buildings. York, and to enable them to dreet new buildings.

Mr. Varnum proceeded at some length to discuss the propriety of passing this bill. It was rendered indispensably necessary on account of the crowded state of the buildings now in use by the society, and special attention had been direct the society, and special attention and been directed to it by the Governor in his Message to the Legislature. Mr. Varnum then proceeded to read from the report of the directors of the institution a statement of the comparative condition of the establishment, with the number of juveniles consider the processity of passing this bill the members the necessity of passing this bill without delay. He paid a merited tribute to the founders and supporters of the institution, and concluded his remarks by again calling for the passage of the bill.

Mr. DENNISON did not wish to be considered vain on rising to address the House. He only desired to express his cordial approval of this bill. It was a subject which should meet the hearty concurrence of every member, and he hoped that if necessary the sum maked for might be increased. He appealed to the fathers of the House for their support and countenance to this bill, and believed that no man would be found to oppose its passage. Mr. Baker did not intend to debate the bill, but merely to relate a circumstance. A few days since the Sheriff of the County of Kings was in the Assembly Chamber, and stated that their County Jail was full of boys and girls idling away their time, and merely on account of the crowded state of the House of Refuge.

Mr. Highy moved to report the bill to the House.

It was carried, and the Assembly took a recess.

Mr. Lyon moved that the Surveyor General report at once to the Legislature the state of the Public Lands. Laid over.

The Committee of the Whole considered the bill establishing a Bank Department; the question being on the motion to provide for the election of a Superintendent by the people, instead of superinted by the Governor.

Mr. BURKOUGHS favored the motion. He had heard no good reason offered for conferring this power on the Governor. When the gentleman from Cayuga (Mr. Underwood,) was called on for a reason, he said the Governor and Controller had recommended the establishment of this Department. He did not reply to the question pro-pounded but evidently desired to evade it. He was anxions to have some friend of the bill state his reasons for favoring the appointing power by the executive. The very gentlemen who were so strenuous to deprive the people of the elective power, were the most decided advocates of that principle in 1846. Do they wish us to coasider that they have changed their position or that they repudiate that doctrine? He was sorry that repudiate that doctrine? He was sorry that no man could be found to declare his opinion in favor of the bill. He considered the officer to be appointed of more importance than the Governor, and still there is a majority who come in this House and ask that the Governor may appoint him. He is the man who is to guard the money of the whole people, and still they proposed to place a man of no responsibility, as in that office he was not responsible, because the people could not reach him through the ballot box. Was it not asserted, a few days since, that the Governor had been applied to appoint a certain man, and was it not plied to appoint a certain man, and was it not stated with considerable pride that the Executive had resisted all attempts to induce him to comply with such request? The time may come when we shall not be so fortunate as to have a presiding officer so impregnable as our present worthy Governor. Will gentlemen repudiate their principles and distrust their constituents merely to secure the appointment of a partisan? For the last twenty years, while the Locos were in power, no such strocious assumption could be pointed out. Why? The "Federalists" of 1812 repudiated this method, and still you place "Democratic Whig" over your principles. If the Whiga were determined to pass this law, an appeal to them in common humanity to abandon the name of "Democratic Whigs;" and he called on those whom he really could call by that title to vote for expunging a section which reestablished a system repudiated over forty years since.

Mr. BRADLY followed, advocating the reference Mr. BRADLY followed, advocating the reference of the matter to the people. They were the persons most deeply interested in the selection of officers, and therefore should be allowed to make the selection. He believed that a person elected by the people would be more trustworthy than if appointed by the Governor. He is more to be relied on on account of the great confidence placed in him. He held that neither party would place is nomination a man unworthy to be supported by them, and with that belief he would vote for the amendment.

Mr. UNDERWOOD moved that the Committee rise and report the bill to the House.

Mr. BURROUGHS resumed the floor, and opposed the bill as being one which was in direct opposi-tion to the power of the people. Mr. B. continued at length to denounce the attempt to harry the bill through the House, and called on its advocates bill through the House, and called on its advocates to come to its defense.

Mr. Underwood replied to Mr. B. and stated that he had found it difficult to speak upon the resolution, because the gentleman from Orleans Co. had invariably obtained the floor, and by his course he had caused all the delay in this matter; be had on two several occasions intimated to him.

Mr. Unter he should not take a vote on the (Mr. U.) that he should not take a vote on the 26th on the question, as he should occupy the time of the Committee till the hour of adjournment—thus delaying action; and that gentieman, a few days since, had consent, after asking a postponement of the consideration of the bill, to introduce a local bill, which he asserted was of great importance, as he had been informed by Benator Miller. Part, at least, of that statement was untrue. Mr. U. possended to advantage to the statement. was untrue. Mr. U. proceeded to advocate the original bill, and read from the Message of the Governor to sustain him in his position.

Mr. O. Allen in reply to the argument that it was the principle of the people of this State, shown in the last Constitutional Convention, to make officers of consequence elective by the people, said that the action of that Convention went argument that it er should not be an elective ficer, because it left him to be appointed by the controller, who is elected by the people.

Mr. A. A. Thompson followed in a spirited appeal to every member of honesty of purpose to vote in favor of the amendment, making this offeer elective by the people.

Mr. Highy argued at some length that this important officer should be elected by the people.

He claimed that the principal reason why the Controller was elected by the people was that he had this department under his charge.

BUNKER HILL SET TO MUSIC.-Mr. Knaebel of this City, has composed "The Battle of Bunker Hill, for a Double Orchestra, representing the adverse American and British Armies," which is to be rehearsed to-morrow. A programe of this great work gives us the following particulars:

Gen Puinsn's March.
 Digging Fortifications after midnight (in the mean time the Brit shory, "All's Well," to be represented by the Horns as a Duet)

The spades, we suppose, will be represented by violing, the shovels by violincellos, and the pick-axes by trombones. A prestissimo move. ment will describe the activity of the Americans. 3. Astonishment of the British, discovering the Fortifi-

Here the clarionet will shrick out, "My eye!" the octave flute give a long whistle of amazement, and the drum grufily articulate: "Here's a go!" Then follows, in the programme, "Tre" mendous Fire from the Floating Batteries,' which will probably be represented by a separate band of drums, cymbals, gongs, &c. stationed on the right flank of the British orchestra. After this the combat becomes general. The two or. chestras let off their big drums at each other, casting shells and explosive mixtures of sound back and forth, while the wounded flutes, bugles clarionets, oboes and trombones shrick under the hoofs of the trumpet cavalry that clatters over them. The battle terminates as follows:

17. Thundering cannonade by the British.
18. Charlestown on fire.
19. Cries of the wounded.
20. Finale: March and combat between both Orchestras, on the National Airs.

PASSPORTS,-We have received communica tions from "An Ex-Passport Clerk" and a "No tary Public" in relation to the forms necessary to be observed in procuring a passport. An adopted citizen, it appears, is required to forward to the State Department his naturalization papers and a personal description: the papers will be returned to the applicant with the passport. A law of Congress, passed on the 16th of December last. makes it obligatory on a native citizen, applying for Passports, to make oath of his citizenship, which must also be attested to by another citizen to whom he is personally known, before a Notary Public. This testimony, with a description of person, must be forwarded to the Department .-This information may be of some use to the ten thousand and one who are going to the World's

AN UNFORTUNATE SEAMAN .- The schooner Gov. Anderson, which arrived yesterday from Matanzas, brought as passenger James Tibby, of this City, who was a seaman on board of the brig Harraseeket, of and from Portland, bound to Matanzas. When two or three days out, he had his feet so badly frozen as to entirely disable him The captain of the H. conveyed him to Matanzas and left him at the Hospital in that place, where in consequence of neglect and injudicious treat ment, his case became worse instead of better so much so that both feet have since dropped off, leaving the bones exposed. His case is one of peculiar misfortune.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION .- We see that the Industrial Congress call for some action on the part of the Common Council, on the all-engrossing subject of LAND REFORM. We see no reason why our City Councils cannot follow the example of fifteen or more State Legislatures and various religious bodies by recommending that suitable measures be taken by our State Legislature and the Congress of the Nation for arresting Land Monopoly before it is too late. At any rate, the Memorial of the Industrial Congress deserves a respectful consideration at the hands of the Common Council. Land Reform has been recom mended by the Governors of most of the States and the Mayor of Washington City called the attention of the Common Council of that city to the subject, who, we believe, reported in favor of Lot Limitation and Homestead Exemption in the Dis trict of Columbia-measures of Reform which have subsequently been enacted.

THE REFUGEE O'DONNELL .- The following extract, which we find in the report of the trial of Wm. Smith O'Brien, at Clonmel, in September, 1848, illustrates Mr. O'Donnell's character:

"John O'Donnell, of the Commons of Ballingarry, was next called. He was a respectable-looking and intelligent man, apparently of the comfortable class of farmers. On the book being handed to him he said, "What is this for I I won't he awars or give evidence under any circumstances. You may bring me out and put a file of soldiers before me, and plant twenty bullets in my breast, but while I have a heart here (atriking his breast) I never will awest for you." O'Dorsell turned to leave the table, when Chief Justice Blackburge said to the witness—You re-fuse to be award to you!

I am satisfied, whatever the result may be. Chief Justice Blackhurne: Gaoler, remove him. O'Donneil was then removed in costody. It was stated in court that the Grown hoped to prove by O'Donneil that Mr. O'Brian sept and obtained refreshment in his house at Bellingary. He let the table repeating his determination and to give evidence, no matter what the consequence of refresing might be."

He was afterward sentenced to pay a fine, and sent to prison for twelve months.

The quartettes of Beethoven and Mozart are poems in sound-great works of art, which it is a privilege and a joy to hear.

THE LATE WALL ST. CASE .- The examination of James McKay and John P. Cryder, charged with False Pretences, in obtaining bonds of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad Company, valued at 895,000 was not resumed yesterday afterneon according to previous adjournment. Francis B. Cutting, Esq., counsel for the prosecution, informed the Magistrate that he should not offer any further evidence and rest the case. Mr. Romaine, the only counsel present for the defendants, said that his associate, Mr. Van Buren, was absent at Albany, and wished the matter postponed until his return. It was accordingly adjourned over till 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, unless Mr. Van Bureu should return sooner.

THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS .- The admirable Panorama of Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, now exhibiting at Washington Hall, 598 Broadway, has re. ceived a very handsome compliment from the Rev. Divines of our City. In our advertising colums will be found a card signed by them, recommending it to public notice. The exhibition, we understand, will shortly close. No reader of Bun yan should emit seeing this presentation of the landscapes of his immortal book.

VISIT OF THE WISE MEN .- Mesers. Drew & Newton have tendered to the members of the Legislature an invitation to visit the City, and have placed at their disposal one of their finest finest steamers.

Arrests for Carrying Concenled Weapons-Disorder-Fugitive Slave Case-Markets. Correspondence of The Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, March 13, In consequence of the interest felt by our colored population in the recent Fugitive Slave case. quite a number had congregated in front of the State House last night to hear the result. The crowd blocking up the sidewalk, the Assistant Marshall ordered it to disperse, which not being done as promptly and as quietly as was desirable, about a dozen arrests were made by the police.— Upon each colored person arrested was found a deadly weapon. This morning five of the number were bound over to answer the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and the rest were discharged with a reprimand.

Last night a blood named George Fernandez was arrested for kicking up "didoes." In attempting to lock the prisoner up, Michael Garson, the turnkey of the Cherry st. station-house was roughly handled by him. Upon George's person was found a six barreled revolving pistol, loaded and capped. This morning he was bound over in $1,100 to answer the charge of carrying concealed deadly wespons, and assault and battery upon a Police officer and the turnkey.

William Garrison, colored, was arrested last night for burglary. He was committed to answer.

The fugitive slave case, which has been before the United States District Court since Saturday

The ingitive stave case, which has been dealer the United States District Court since Saturday last the proceedings of which I have daily sent you, was brought to a conclusion last night about 12 c'clock. The tealment for the claimant, given yesterday afternoon, after I closed my letter, was clear and conclusive. It could leave no doubt on the mind as to the prisoners, Hannahand Dick, (who were really named Ellien and Heary,) being the fugitive slaves of John Perdu, of Baltimore.

The Counsel commenced their arguments at about 3 o'clock last evening, and concluded before 11 at night. Judge Knner reviewed the testimeny at great length, and pointed out the discrepancies and contradictions in that for the defense. It was there alleged, that Hannah and Dick had worked for various white persons in Columbia, previews to the time of their alleged escape from Maryland. Why had they not been brought here to teasily! And why was not the pastor of the Methodist Church, she was said to have visited so regularly before 18th, subponned here to substantiate this assertion! The objection hat she could not be removed from this State while in her pregnant condition, he considered uniound in law. The master had the same right over his slave, that a father would have over his day left if she were in a pregnant condition, and illegally held from his custody. The fact of her pregnancy would not preven the father from recovering the possession and class dy of his child. He reviewed this point at some the tested.

This morning they were excured to the cars by a large.

teresth and concluded by remanding the alleged fugitives to the keeping of their master, and a ave him a certificate to that effect.

This morning they were executed to the cars by a large force of the Marshal's Police, and sufely placed within, and no doubt by this time they are within the turisdiction of the Bailmore Cours. Very few persons followed the fugitives to the cars, and not the elightest disturbance occurred. A detachment of the Marshal's Police accompanied the fugitives to Gray's Ferry.

Ratio of Mortality-Registration Laws. To the Editor of The Tribune:

In your telegraphic report of Mr. BEEKMAN'S remarks in relation to the Registration of Births, Marriages and Deaths, it is stated that in one section of our State the deaths in proportion to the living are as 1 to 82, and in another portion, one to 32. Some of your readers having expressed a doubt as to the accuracy of this statement or of the report, I beg leave to send you the follow. ing to show that there is no inaccuracy whatever in the relative mortality of different sections of the State.

In The Tribune of the 25th of February last it is stated that the Census gives a population to the Northern part of New-York of 1,989,653, and 23,670 deaths for the year preceding June 1, 1850. This you will find is 1 in 84. Is Southern New-York, comprising 14 counties, there is a population of 1,109,165, while the deaths reported are 33,259; this gives 1 death to every 33 living.

It has been suggested that cholera in the City

ARRESTS FOR GRAND LABCENY. - Ellen of New York made the difference. Let us try City from Cholera and its influences, has been put down at 8,000 in 1849. This number, subtracted from 33,259, leaves 25,259; giving 1 death to every 43 living—just double the number in the other section of the State!

There is now before the Legislature a law which provides for a proper and accurate record of the actual mortality accruing throughout the State, including the ages of the deceased and the causes of their death. One object to be attained by ascertaining these facts is the comparison of the mortality of different places, which, when known, naturally leads to a wish to know the causes of this difference. A sanitary survey will in time follow a publication of these facts, and the origin of a greater amount of mortality in one place being thereby discovered, the removal of the cause will, as a matter of course be sug-gested, and thus the general health of the people

Now, what are the causes of the amazing difference above stated? There may be sur-mises, but an accurate knowledge of them can only be discovered by a careful registration of the deaths and a scientific survey of the country, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature will give its aid by the passage of this law and the accomplishing so desirable an object.

The Liquor Traffic.

The following is the substance of the bills to regulate and prevent liquor selling, reported in the Assembly at Albany, on Wednesday:

Mr. Fordyce, from the majority of the Select Committee reported that "to puss a strictly prohibitory law would be equivalent to repealing all restraining laws; and believing as they do, that the present law fully recognizes the doctume that the traffic in thickleting highest straining laws intended for a shield to be thrown around the community to guard them against the evils liable to grow out of this traffic." Believing, however, that the present law was intended for a shield to be thrown around the community to guard them against the evils liable to grow out of this traffic." Believing, however, that the present law may be modified, the majority report a bill which provides.

late meeting of the Royal Geographical Society at London, it was announced that Roy. D. Livingstone, of the London Missionary Society, had discovered another large lake in South Africa, about 200 miles north of Lake Ngami, which he recently made known to the world. The new luke contains several large islands, and is connected with the Ngami by a rapid stream called the Teage. At the date of the last advices, Mr. Livingstone was proceeding northward. Counterfeit Money.

From the St. Louis Republican, March 4.
We announced some days ago that Captain
Cozzens, of the police, had gone to Jefferson county, in the company of young Seats, but we omit-ted to state the fact which was then kept secret, that he expected during his visit to elicit further particulars touching the counterfeits on the Misouri fifties. The result of his investigation has been the seizure of all the apparatus employed in recovery of about $200,000 in counterfeit bills. Capt. Cozzens gives the following account of his course of inquiries, with their accompanying dis-

The house formerly occupied by J. T. S. Moore, the counterfeiter, is situated in a bottom about six miles from the town of Hillsboro, and some forty miles below this city. During the owner's absence in California it was sold under execution, and it is now tenanted by a farmer named Straps. Enough of Moore's personal property was found by Capt. Cozzens on the premises, to induce the suspicion that the instruments with which he prosecuted his criminal labors might also have een left behind. Accordingly a thorough examination was began.
Some eighty or ninety yards to the east of the dwelling house is a small cabin built by Moore, for the convenience (he alleged to his neighbors) of his negroes and hands. During the search of of his negroes and hands. During the search of last Saturday, Capt Cozzens observed that the floor was covered with a greater quantity of earth and flith than could have been got there by natural accumulation. He saw fit to tear up two or three planks, and afterward could very readily perceive that the earth under the floor had, in several places, been disturbed. With the aid of spades and pick axes, three boxes, lying at short distances apart and about two feet from the surface of the ground, were brought out. They had been carefully and securely nailed, and on exam-ination, were found to be well coated internally with tar-a preservative evidently for their con tents. There were found in the three boxes, the whole apparatus used in counterfeiting the Missouri fifties and other bills. The apparatus includes a splendid copper printing press, numerous engraving instruments, plates, magnifying glasses, vices, ink, rolls of bill paper, diamonds (such as are used by glaziers) and very many fine saws for

The boxes, as we before said, were coated internally with tar; a quantity of pow-dered charcoal formed the next coating, and finally, a majority of the instruments had been dipped in tar; these precautions were all dedipped in tar; these signed to guard the instruments against the injuries of dampuess. They failed partially in their object, however, as almost every roll of bill paper was moist and musty when taken out. The counterfeit bills were found in a stone jug in one counterfeit bills were found in a scone jug in one of the boxes. The jar had been carefully sealed and coated with tar. Moore, the only person, so far, to whom saspicion attaches, we will state in conclusion, had resided at the place spoken of above one entire year before he left for California. Ostensibly he was a farmer, who prospered in his honest devotion to agricultural pursuits. He bore an excellent character among his neighbors. The heads of the Police are of the online that they will yet of the Police are of the opinion that they will yet arrest him, or at least that they will reach some arrest him, or at least that they will reach some one of his accomplices, who may prove equally accountable. Mrs. Moore, it may be added, is living near the late residence of her husband. How fully she has been admitted into his purposes and plans has not yet transpired.
